Doctoral Dissertation: “Effect of Music and Imagery to Induce Relaxation and Reduce Nausea and Emesis in Patients with Cancer Undergoing Chemotherapy Treatment.” Implemented a research protocol to cancer patients undergoing chemotherapy treatment. Applied an adaptation of The Bonny Method including relaxation training. From the 20 participants in this study, there was a strong positive response with a decrease of nausea over time.

Clinical Clerkship: “The Use of Rhythmic Auditory Stimulation for Stroke and Traumatic Brain Injury Patients.” A gait training protocol for stroke and traumatic brain injury patients was established at San Joaquin General Hospital in Stockton, CA, using a technique called “Rhythmic Auditory Stimulation” (RAS). The gait training protocol ran for six weeks. Results showed that RAS organized the motor coordination of all four participants, because all improved their gait performance on the three variables: gait cadence, velocity and stride length.
